Those selected comprise the top 1 percent of carriers serving Schneider customers with service excellence

GREEN BAY, Wis.—Nov. 12, 2008—Schneider Logistics, Inc., a leading global logistics provider and part of the Schneider National enterprise, hosted its sixth annual Carrier Recognition Conference in Green Bay, Wis., on September 17-18, 2008. Representatives from over 140 carriers attended this year's event. The conference's highlight came on Thursday, Sept. 18, when 16 transportation companies were honored with Schneider Logistics' Carrier of the Year award.

The Carrier of the Year distinction is presented to Schneider third-party logistics carriers that serve a variety of transportation modes and excel in operational performance, exceptional service and ease of conducting business. Carriers recognized at this year's conference represent the top 1 percent of service providers moving freight on behalf of Schneider Logistics' customers.

"Each year Schneider Logistics holds our Carrier Recognition Conference to thank and recognize those core providers who deliver the capacity and high-level service for which Schneider is known," said Bill Miller, vice president of Supply Chain Management at Schneider Logistics. "Because these carriers are an extension of Schneider, we count on them to deliver each and every load safely, on-time and with great professionalism."
