Schneider National Named CaseStack Green Carrier of the Year

Nation's largest, most energy-efficient truckload carrier recognized for its ongoing commitment to sustainability

GREEN BAY, Wis. – June 3, 2009 – Schneider National, Inc., a premier provider of transportation, logistics and intermodal services, was recently named the CaseStack Green Carrier of the Year. The nation's largest truckload carrier was recognized for its outstanding level of service while remaining the most "green" within Casestack's frequently used carrier base. CaseStack is a sustainability-focused supply chain innovator that provides logistics outsourcing services to companies selling products to retailers, distributors and other manufacturers.

Schneider National was chosen as the Green Carrier of the Year for consistently following best practices within the area of sustainability. In order to be eligible for consideration, carriers need to be members of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's SmartWay Transport Partnership. CaseStack's management team evaluated and rated the 20 eligible providers based on criteria such as driving and idling practices, tire modifications, body modifications and management of maximum truck speeds. In addition, service levels, pricing, availability and quality were also taken into account.

"Schneider National has a long-standing commitment to operating the most energy-efficient fleet in the industry," said Dan Van Alstine, senior vice president/general manager for Schneider National. "By being more fuel efficient, we're lowering emissions and saving valuable natural resources. We're also helping our customers meet their own sustainability goals. We're proud to work with companies who share our commitment to social responsibility and are honored to receive this inaugural award from CaseStack."

"This award is a direct result of Schneider's superior reputation for reliability, quality and customer service," said Dan Sanker, president and CEO of CaseStack. "We look forward to continuing our excellent relationship with them in 2009."
